THE COMING ELECTION.

Although, in common parlance, the present year is an "off year" in politics, involving no national offices and but indirectly involving national issues, yet the coming November elections will settle some extremely important questions in several of the states, as well as carry its influence into the national elections of next year.Elections will be held on November 5 in twelve states, as follows: Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Nebraska, New York, New Jersey, Ohio and Utah elect governors. Among these Mississippi is the only one certain to go Democratic. In Iowa, Massachusetts and Ohio the result is practically sure for the Republicans and in New Jersey and Utah Republican chances are considered bright.In this state the issues are not of remarkable importance. The people will be asked to decide whether they will choose a governor who has already performed his duties of chief executive well and conscientiously and is a man of a record as well as words, or whether they will choose a man who has as yet only good promises upon which to make a campaign. The Democrats are making a desperate attempt to gain strength in the legislature, and hope for no greater comfort from the election returns than accomplishing this purpose. The issue really at stake is how overwhelmingly the people will trust the Republican party as compared with the Democratic party in state matters.In New York state, while neither of the greatest two officers—governor or the state and mayor of New York city are to be chosen, yet the great issue of reform and its support in New York is again before the people. Tammany rears its foul crest once more against the decency and honesty of the great city, and throughout the state the issue of a temperance Sunday is up for decision. A Republican victory there will be a lasting victory for law and order in the great empire state.Two states in which the greatest interest centers are Kentucky and Maryland.
In the latter state the growing Republican prestige is augmented by the strength of a large following of independent Democrats, who have bolted the rule of Senator Gorman and the Baltimore Democratic ring, which is almost sure of being overthrown as have been the dictatorship and corrupt politics of Hill and Tan-nam in New York. In Kentucky the struggle of Blackburn to beat the administration forces in his contest for the senatorship, and Nat Hardin's attempt to be elected governor as an out-and-out free-silver man on a gold basis platform are events exciting national interest. The Republicans, now having gained for several years in the blue-grass state, are confident of winning by 15,000 and carrying the state permanently into the Republican column.In the great Republican states of Pen-sylvania, Kansas and Nebraska the issue is one of Republican majorities. Populism is dead in the latter two. In Iowa, Maryland, Kentucky, Ohio and Mississippi the legislatures elected this fall will choose United States senators. In only one—Mis-sissippi—are the Democrats certain of a majority. In New York, New Jersey and Virginia a part of the legislature chosen this year will participate in the selection of a United States senator and only in the latter case the Democrats count on success.
Ohio's Republican majority will have great weight in Major McKinley's presidential prospects, an overwhelming Republican majority booming him not in-considerably. The same may be said of Morton in New York state. The election will further show whether the business revival is attributed at all to the Democrats and whether the people propose to trust them in any degree.Today the prospects are gloriously Republican. May the signs not fail!

WOMAN'S VOTING.

We begin to lose interest in advocating the cause of woman suffrage, because of the little interest taken in voting by the women themselves. See what they have done in Connecticut. The Hartford Courant publishes an instructive table of the voting of women in Connecticut during the three years in which they have had the right to vote for school committees. It is as follows:

Counties.	1892.	1891.	1890.
Hartford.	1298	1186	639
New Haven.	973	949	670
New London.	261	273	185
Fairfield.	278	283	128
Windham.	176	182	148
Litchfield.	139	85	83
Middlesex.	60	139	101
Tolland.	372	137	37
Totals.	3908	3241	1806

It seems that when suffrage was a novelty there, but a very small proportion of the women of the state cared to go to the polls. The number was slightly diminished the next year. The third year it fell off almost one-half from the first, and became reduced to the small number of 1806, and this out of a woman population of voting age of about 175,000.—Hampshire Gazette.Reports come from North Adams that Chief of Police Fuller will not get as large a vote this year as he did the last time he ran when he was helped out by certain other contents. In Williamstown too, the Republican candidate for sheriff will not get as big a plurality as he did three years ago.—Pittsfield Journal.Now stop circulating any such reports right away. They will not appear well the day after election anyway, and will lead to the presumption that some one was misinformed or got up some cheap campaign trash.Cards will be issued to 1,500 people for admission to St. Thomas's church in New York to witness the Marlborough and Vanderbilt wedding, and fifty policemen will keep order on the outside. It is hoped the duke will not have been arrested on that day for fast bicycling in the park, or gotten his wedding clothes torn in being thrown out of a stage-entrance door on that auspicious (or un-auspicious) day.F. R. Shaw has had experience in the register's office of probate office. George Kearn has had experience in Boston. Senator Lawrence knows the senate. Chief Fuller has been trained for years for the duties of sheriff. Is there any better reason for voting for any man for office than these reasons?Mr. Fuller hasn't sixty deputies to help him or a mayoral son. But he has hosts of friends everywhere, won by the merits and the warm and honest heart of a true man.

THE EDITOR'S SHEARS.

FOR TODAY.

How sweet it is at twilight, When toil of day is done,
To sit in lengthening shadows,
As stars peep one by one!No more the harsh alarm,
Of early morning strife,
No more the heat of noonday,
With heavy burdens rife.But clouds to watch soft floating, Adown the golden west,
While fancy sees dream faces, As calm we sit and rest.So when old age comes o'er us,— Life's weariness to crown, The sweetest time is just when,
Our sun is going down.

—Julia Raines.

IN BLOOMERS.

She rides on her bike in astonishin' clothes;
The little dogs bark when a-cyclin she goes—She's partial to her maid And looks 'em like a ladOr a page on the billboards of vaudeville shows.
Oh, Sally,
Contrary,
You've got ter be, very.I'm gettin' clean sour where I used ter be merry
I've jest got ter hustle the best that I can,
For she's the new woman and I'm the old man.I've learnt ter do mendin' and darnin' and such,
I'm bendin' ter tasks that I once scorned ter touch;
The flapjack I turn So's the breakfast won't burn, And I don't go out nights ter the lodge room—not much;I'm worried, An' hurried,
An' totally flurried, Till sometimes I wisht I was well dead an' buried;But I'm peggin' away on the popular plan,
For she's the new woman an' I'm the old man.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

—Miss Lizzie Hatton of Centre street gave a pleasant party at her home last evening to celebrate her birthday.—Cleghorn & Johnson are building a coal office on the Loftus property on Holden street. A platform scale has also been set up.—It is believed the ceremonies installing Rev. W. L. Tenney pastor of the Congregational church will be held about November 10.—Quite a number from the Methodist church attended the annual convention of the Epworth league of this conference held in West Troy, N. Y., today.—The painting of the interior of the Methodist church was finished yesterday and the repairs are now all complete.
The painting was done by Valentine.—A. N. Gelinas has rented of the St.
Jean Baptist society the room formerly occupied as a broker's office and will locate his insurance and musical instrument business there.—Rev. Alfred T. Perry, son of George B. Perry of this town, is intimately acquainted with Rev. Hyatt Smith over whom there has been so much sensationalism recently.—J. William Wilkinson of 19 Church street fell from a bicycle on Chestnut street yesterday afternoon and was considerably bruised up. His wheel was broken beyond service.—The Ideal orchestra will furnish the music for the reception to be given by Division 4, A. O. H., Friday evening to the young women and others who assisted at the division's fair.—While the public kindergarten is doing very well it does not seem to injure the private institution conducted by Miss Allen in the Y. M. C. A. building. Miss Allen has over twenty-five pupils.—The W. C. T. U. is desirous of having a building of its own. If any person is willing to give the union a plot of ground the members will be extremely grateful and would do their utmost to erect a building which would be an honor to the town.
Any one charitably inclined can do a gracious act in this way.—G. H. Gibson has a watch which he bought of L. M. Barnes twenty-one years ago for $5. It is a Waltham watch and has done good service from the time it was bought, and it is still a reliable time-piece. Mr. Gibson says he has not paid out over $3 for repairs on the watch during the long time he has carried it.—Miss Florence Butler gave a whist party at her home in Zylonite yesterday afternoon for her guest, Miss Carthywright.
Miss Sarah Allen won first prize, Mrs. A.
H. Barker second and Miss Wilcox of the Wilson house the consolation one. The score cards were cleverly painted and were done by Miss Carthywright.—Clan McIntyre will hold a meeting tomorrow night and initiate a good number of members. The clan has induced Piper Merryweather, one of the best baggage players of the world, to locate in this town. He has been found a position in the Arnold print works and will entertain the clan and the public too on his Scottish reads.—All members of the St. Jean Baptist society who are going to Readsboro, Vt., tomorrow night attend the French fair are requested to meet at the hall at 6:30 o'clock. The society will move from the hall to the depot in a body and the train will start at 7 o'clock. The society will be accompanied by the Military drum corps.—Thomas J. Reynolds of Hoosick Falls, N. Y., who has had good success at teaching the banjo, mandolin and guitar in his own town and in the city of Troy, will organize a class in this town tomorrow at the Young Men's Christian association building. Prof. Reynolds is said to be an adept at teaching his favorite instruments to young pupils, giving fair proficiency in short time.—A tramp half drunk was given lodgings at the police station last night and remained in the tramp room only a few minutes. He got inside to get "full" as he explained so that he would get thirty or sixty days. "This is the kitchinist county I ever struck," he said, they give you the best of grub at the jail. Its jest a picnic to stay there a while."—J. W. Valentine has been suffering for some time from elongation of the palate, and yesterday a part of the palate was cut off by Dr. Simpson. The operation left a slight tenderness and Mr. Valentine is not "working his mouth" to any great extent just at present, but will be heard from again in a few days. He is already able to communicate by telephone—with the aid of his wife.—Thomas Lynch, a North Adams, Mass., druggist, made a mistake in bottles Monday evening, which came very near proving fatal. He was staying at the Doroteum hotel, in Albany, and before retiring took a drink from a bottle which contained a strong and poisonous mixture.
Mr. Lynch realized his mistake, and was taken to the hospital, where a stomach pump was used and the patient placed out of danger.—Troy Press.

says: "I regard Dr. King's New Discovery as an ideal Panacea for Coughs, Colds, and Lung complaints, having used it in my family for the last five years, to the exclusion of physician's prescriptions or other preparations."Rev. John Burgess, Keokuk, Iowa, writes:

ADAMS TOWN TALK.

Stolen Coat Found by Seymour at Adams.
 At the dance in St. Jean Baptiste hall recently an overcoat owned by Peter Des-noyers was taken by an unknown party and an old one left in its stead. Mr. Des-noyers consulted Seymour, the mind reader, and the latter described in a man whom he said had the coat and told Mr. Desnoyers he would soon meet the man at a public place. Tuesday evening Mr. Desnoyers was at the opera house and saw the man Seymour described in the seat behind him and he wore the lost overcoat. Desnoyers had a warrant sworn out and Officer Curran arrested the man who proved to be Fred Horton. In court this morning Horton said he took the coat accidentally. Judge Bixby found Horton guilty of larceny and fined him $10.

Mr. Seymour is now located in North Adams at No. 85 Eagle street in the Beer & Down block and can be consulted.
 His hours are from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily. This will be the last opportunity to consult the great palmist. He will remain in the city for seven days.

This remarkable man is gifted with marvelous mediumistic powers, and may be consulted on all matters pertaining to the welfare of the human race. He gives advice on business, speculation, investments, insurance, love, courtship, marriage and divorce; settles lovers' quarrels, reunites the separated and causes a speedy and happy marriage with one of your choice.

 The earth reveals to him the hidden treasure buried in her bosom. He locates mines and buried wealth, interprets dreams and tells of friends and enemies, removes evil influences, gives advice pertaining to law suits, leases and reverts estates—everything. Hundreds of families long separated have been reunited by his efforts and many hearts made glad by his power. Drinking husbands and wayward wives and girls and lost sons have been found and restored to friends, family and happiness. Letters come in daily telling of benefit received by those who were on the verge of despair.

The Professor tells your name, your age, residence and profession; also what you called for—everything.

 She was a bright little girl and of a pleasant disposition and her parents have the deep sympathy of a large number of The child has been cared for since the death

While waiting for the butcher to make change Tuesday Mrs. Strahl held her pocketbook open in her hand, a whirwind came up suddenly and blew a $5 bill out of her purse. She did not discover her loss until she reached her door. She immediately went in search of the missing bill, but it was too late. We have heard of people letting their money go with the wind, but don't believe it was intentional in this case.

STANFORD.

"Quaint Things from Familiar Objects," was the subject of a lecture given in the M. E. church on Wednesday evening Oct.
 23, by Rev. F. Nicolls of Wilbraham, Mass. kindly given for the benefit of the Epworth League. It seemed unfortunate that there was another lecture in town on the same evening, yet nearly forty of our citizens had the rare privilege of hearing the lecture and enjoyed every moment of the time. The lecture was so filled with "quaint things," that it is impossible to report it. It was fine.

Mrs. Henry Seeger and Miss Grace Seeger, Rev. John Landry, Herman Filior, Harry Blood and John Banks, Jr., went to Troy Thursday to attend the Epworth League convention.

KEPT HIM BUSY.

Everybody in Atlanta Seemed to Want to Grasp Cleveland's Hand.

ATLANTA, Oct. 24.—Yesterday was President's day at the exposition, and the grounds were crowded. The ceremonies in connection with the occasion were held in the afternoon.

The president was greeted by an ovation which lasted for several minutes. He was thrown in the air and boundless enthusiasm was manifested. His speech, though short, consumed considerable time in delivery, because of the frequent interruptions of applause.

At its conclusion Mr. Cleveland held an informal reception. For five minutes he grasped the hands of American citizens at the rate of 100 a minute. In 15 minutes the president's face was covered with perspiration, and he was evidently tiring.

For 35 minutes he continued to shake hands with the throng, and he then said he was fatigued, and the time was closed.

After luncheon the president began a tour of the grounds, visiting the government buildings, the main building, the negro building and inspected the exposit-tion throughout.

The series of courtesies extended to the presidential party were concluded last night with a reception at the Capital City club, which put itself on record as the most elaborate social function ever undertaken in the south. The chief executive spent an hour or more receiving the 1500 people present. After the reception, the president and his party left for Washington.

Took His Own Life.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Marquis of Waterford has committed suicide with a revolver at Curraghmore. He had been failing in health, owing to an accident to his spine, while hunting years ago. Lord William Beresford says that his brother had suffered greatly from despondency.
 John Henry De-La-Poer Beresford, fifth Marquis of Waterford, was born in 1844, and succeeded to the title in 1886. He had been twice married, his present wife being the only daughter of the Duke of Beaufort.
 He was lord lieutenant of county Waterford, the knight of St. John of Jerusalem and was a member of parliament in 1885 and 1890. In 1895 and 1896 he was master of the buckhounds.

Imprisonment and Torture.
 LONDON, Oct. 24.—A Constantinople dispatch to the Standard says: "Sinister stories are afloat regarding the vengeance wreaked on members of the young Turkish party. A leading Mussulman lawyer named Izzet (whose arrest was reported some time since) was tortured and died in Yildirim prison on proof of corresponding with the party. There is another unconfirmed rumor that 30 leaders of this party were arrested on Saturday, and were summarily tried and executed on a charge of excesses during the riots."

Tillman Again.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 24.—The constitutional convention was adjourned last night by a hot war of words between Senator Tillman and Frank B. Gary, during which the lie was passed, and it was expected that the two men would come to blows immediately at an adjournment, at midnight. Senator Tillman is an advocate of new counties forming, while Gary is not. The matter was finally explained to the satisfaction of all concerned, and the trouble was finally averted.

Blank Cartridge Ballot.

The most civilized portions of mankind have not yet outgrown the measurement of force for the ultimate settlement of every great question, and the unit of force is the man capable of bearing arms. As the financial world has invented bank-notes, checks, and letters of credit, which pass current for the things they represent, the suffrage is still trading only with its actual carriers—balls, wampum and hoopla, so various devices have been brought into use by which available force can be measured and the result of a conflict be foretold, so that the destined losers submit without a conflict and thus save life and treasure. This is the philosophy of a popular election.

Thirty years ago we had an experience in which the metallic power behind the paper ballot had to be actually brought into play.
 Nobody denied that the election of 1891 was fairly conducted and the result correctly declared. But it turned on an important question, and feeling ran high.
 Those who found themselves in a minority believed that they were still so numerous and so united, and had so many circumstances in their favor that they need not submit, and accordingly they refused to do so. Thereupon the majority proceeded to compel them, and though it was an enormous and bloody task, it was carried to completion, and the minority were convinced—not that they were in the wrong, but simply that they were a minority of the military power as well as of the ballot-cases. If half of Grant's army had been nothing but blank cartridges, Lee never would have surrendered.

These considerations lead directly to the conclusion that woman suffrage would be a serious mistake. A ballot put into the box by a woman would be simply a blank cartridge. . . . In our elections as now held there is no security for the verdict unless the majority is sufficient to assure those who are in the minority that if they refuse to submit they will be overruled. With the proposed extension of the suffrage, if the votes of the women are so divided as not to affect the result, then the women might as well have voted, and their presence at the pollard would be a useless and costly addition to the electoral machinery. On the other hand, if an election is carried by a preponderance of the votes of women, who is to enforce the verdict? When a few such voters have been overruled, we shall find ourselves in a state of anarchy.—Boswell Johnston.

PROUD OF DEMOCRACY

Senator Hill Says It Represents All That Is Good in Politics.

Defends His Party's Work at the Nation's Capital.

Explains to New York Audience What Is Meant by Personal Liberty.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—David B. Hill addressed 800 people last evening at Cooper Union. The occasion was the first mass meeting of the campaign held under the auspices of the Democratic state committee.

Senator Hill, among other things, said that Warren Miller, who opened the campaign in this city last week, felt constrained to declare that he alone, and not his party, was responsible for the sentiments which he should express. This was a most remarkable statement. The Republican situation this fall must be so peculiar and complicated that no precedent was set.

"Had the gentleman confined his speech to the excise question," said Mr. Hill, "I could then appreciate the motive and purpose of his disclaimer. The truth is that Mr. Miller's disclaimer to represent his party's principles can be accounted for upon the theory that in many respects his party is absolutely without fixed principles. Of late years it has drifted from one position to another, resorting first to one expedient and then to a different one, bowing to every passing breeze of public opinion, making 'combinations' with every 'ism' that presents itself.

Democratic Principles. "The principles of the Democratic party are so plain and explicit that they do not need to be avoided. My party's principles are my own, and in their presentation on this occasion I shall assume that I speak by its authority as well as in its behalf. I have no apology to make for them—I defend those principles because I believe in them. I should be ashamed to belong to a party whose evasive or complicated principles mean one thing in Herkimer county and another thing in New York—one thing in Maine and another thing in Texas."

Mr. Hill then took up the tariff question, and argued at length in favor of the bill which went into effect on Aug. 28, 1895. He claimed that sufficient time had not elapsed to determine accurately whether its reductions were all wise or justifiable, but he believed that in the end it will be proved that they were not unreasonable. No new tariff law could, in his opinion, state its capacity within a single year's trial.

"The difficulty is," continued Mr. Hill, "that the country has not yet recovered from the effects of the terrible panic of 1893, caused by the Republican Sherman silver act of 1890, passed by Republicans over the vote of every Democrat in congress. This fact, however, cannot escape observation, and that is that the money the McKinley law was repealed, and the new tariff law enacted—to wit, on Aug. 28, 1894—the times began to improve, and have continued improving ever since—slowly, it may be, but surely, safely and satisfactorily."

Repeated Obnoxious Laws. "The national Democratic administration, when it came into power, found a statute which had been enacted by its opponents, known as the Sherman silver law, which was fast dragging the country into financial ruin. This law, the Republican in its inception, in its enactment, and in its enforcement. The president called an extra session of congress to secure its repeal, and, after a long and weary struggle, a Democratic congress wiped it out, and it no longer exists. The law ceased, but its mischief remains, because there has been issued under its provisions $150,000,000 of legal tender paper money, with substantially no available assets with which to redeem it, and which today is disturbing the treasury and embarrassing its operations."

"The national Democratic administration is giving to the country a well-administered government. The various departments are being honestly, economically and wisely conducted. No scandals have disgraced them; no irregularities have occurred; no abuses of power have been tolerated; no extreme parsimony has characterized them. With honor, dignity and diligence they are discharging their duties as public trusts for the welfare of the whole people."

"We promised the people that we would repeal the then existing federal election law which had been enacted by our opponents. With commendable promptness the Democratic congress repealed that odious law."

The Excise Question. "I come now to one of the principal issues involved in this campaign, and that is 'personal liberty.' Our opponents do not like the term. It annoys them, it worries them, it maddens them, it frightens them. Without assuming to answer the arguments which I have in other places presented in its behalf, they have only resorted to vilification and personal abuse."

"Some of the most zealous and indignant opponents have gone so far as to say that by the advocacy of 'personal liberty' I mean the privilege of officials to impose blackmail, the right to steal and the right to commit crime. I have made no such argument, and urge no such contention."

"Personal liberty means liberty regulated by law—reasonable law. As popularly interpreted, it stands for opposition to unnecessary restraint and vexatious interference with private affairs and to all species of obnoxious governmental supervision of individual concerns. The principle which is implied in the term 'personal liberty' is the bulwark of a free state."

"The Democratic party has always been the consistent champion of personal liberty. It will not change its attitude by reason of misrepresentation or threats or the boasts of puritanism. The issue of personal liberty is one which has been made by our opponents—one which has been forced upon us in this campaign, and one which we cannot honorably avoid."

"It was created by the efforts of a few fanatics in this city who sought to arbitrarily, offensively and ignorantly enforce the existing excise law according to the most strict, technical and unfair conditions possible. Their proceedings have aroused a public sentiment in favor of a revision of the existing excise laws, so far as some of its provisions are concerned, which seems to be overwhelming and irresistible. It was necessary that political parties should define their attitude upon this important question. It would have been cowardly to have evaded it."

Rich but Unhappy. PARIS, Oct. 24.—Plains Hinton, the Milwaukee iron king, committed suicide in a hotel in this city.

Ninety-six out of 118 congressmen favor government aid for the Nicaragua canal. Leaders of the Cuban expedition arrested at Nassau, N. P., claim to be American citizens.

CHANGED HIS MIND.

Rose Concludes That He Will Not Try For America's Cup.

Yachtsmen Chagrined at the Turn of Affairs.

Not Willing, However, to Discuss the Merits of the Case.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Charles D. Rose has cabled to the New York Yacht club withdrawing his challenge for the America's cup. Secretary Oddie of the New York Yacht club gave out the following cable correspondence:

NEWARK, Oct. 24. Oddie Secretary New York Yacht Club. Owing to the general impression that my challenge might be construed as an expression of opinion on the result of the last race, I am regretting to ask you to withdraw the same.

CHARLES D. ROSE. Charles D. Rose, 39 Hill street, Berkeley square, London.

Oddie announcing withdrawal of your challenge received. ODDIE, Secretary.

RYDE, Oct. 23. Secretary of the New York Yacht Club: Have received letter from Rose withdrawing challenge for America's cup. Have called committee. Will mail you officially.

THELWASSON. NEW YORK, Oct. 24. TheLwason, Secretary Royal Victoria Yacht Club, Ryde.

Your cable failed to be received. ODDIE, Secretary.

Unwilling to Commit.

The members of the America's cup committee are much chagrined at Mr. Rose's withdrawal, but declare that it would be improper for them to talk concerning it until they received full particulars concerning Mr. Rose's reasons for withdrawing. Ex-Commander Smith said:

"This is, of course, a great disappointment to us, for I suppose it means we will have no race next year with the Englishman. Being, as I am, a member of the cup committee, I cannot express any opinion at present. After the reasons for Mr. Rose's withdrawal are known, I may have a little to say. I expect to receive at any moment the cable which he notified Mr. Oddie that he had sent me. I do not think he could have been dissatisfied with the conditions which we offered him, because they were not final, and we asked him to make any suggestions as to changes that he might have deemed desirable."

"Do you think that Lord Dunsraven induced Mr. Rose to withdraw the challenge because he felt that it was a reflection on him?" was asked. "I must decline to express any opinion at present," replied the ex-commander.

Died With Boots On.

HENKESSEY, O. T., Oct. 24.—Two more members of Seth Wyatt's band of desperadoes have answered for their many deeds of lawlessness. Jim Umbra and Mexican John, two Mexicans, had stolen 50 head of cattle belonging to E. J. Chapman, and his cowboys gave chase. They closed in on the desperadoes, and after a fusillade of bullets the bandits surrendered. The cowboys strung the two men up to the first tree.

Van Alen Evaded Those Who Were Most Anxious to See Him.

Colonel Colt Intends to Stick to His Fight.

Says His Relations With Mrs. Becker Were Absolutely Above Reproach.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 24.—James J. Van Alen returned to this city yesterday, and is now at Wakehurst. He got off at one of the suburban stations, thereby evading those looking for him. Van Alen is secure from arrest until Friday, as there is a statute prohibiting arrest in civil suits on election day, they day before or the day after, and yesterday was election day in this city.

COLONEL COLT. Mr. Van Alen will in all probability be arrested tomorrow. That is, a certain form of the law will be gone through. The military will not himself be taken into custody, but at the same time the significance of the proceeding will be the same, and Van Alen will be compelled to furnish bonds in the enormous sum of $400,000.

A Talk With Colonel Colt.

Up to date the principals in the case have been perfectly inaccessible, and reporters have tried in vain to even gain an instant's interview with them or to extort an expression of opinion.

Yesterday, however, the newspaper man succeeded in having a few moments' conversation with Colonel Colt himself, and with the wife who is now suing for a separation. But neither party was willing to say anything which would enlighten the public to any great extent in regard to their respective views.

But Colonel Colt said enough to show that it is his intention to stick to his fight until the case is decided. "It does not become me," he said, "to make any statements whatever in regard to this case. I have been bothered and troubled by reporters and correspondents, and would like to put the matter at rest for a time, and to that end I am willing to make

A Brief Statement.

"I am absolutely innocent of the charges which have been preferred against me, but there is no need of talking about that now; the whole thing will come out in time, I suppose, although I don't think of it."

"My relations with Mrs. Becker were absolutely above reproach. I regret exceedingly that that lady's name has been brought into this affair. We were friends, and, of course, had a right to be such. But there was never anything more to it than an ordinary friendship. It is absolutely nonsense to attach any significance to the fact that I went to theaters with her a couple of times. It was simply a matter of courtesy. I am averse to being quoted at all, and henceforth shall say nothing whatever."

Mrs. Colt was called upon. "I will say nothing whatever about the affair," she said to the reporter. "I do not desire any more publicity than has already been given to the case. I am sorry that my children should have their names mentioned."

REPUBLICAN PRINCIPLES

Expounded at the Banquet of the Republican Club of Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—The fifth annual dinner of the Republican club of Massachusetts in Music hall last night brought out 9000 members of the party. Over 1200 members sat down to the banquet table. Francis H. Appleton presided. In opening the exercises President Appleton congratulated the party for having renominated the old ticket, and urged the members of the party to give serious consideration to the question of woman's suffrage. He requested the party to send delegates to the national convention who would vote unitely for the nomination of Thomas H. Reed for president.

Theodore Roosevelt declared he came to Boston to draw inspiration from the Massachusetts Republicans, and in speaking of his work in New York said: "Tammany had a meeting last night, and is reported as saying, through Perry Belmont, that 'we believe in the enforcement of the law, with discretion and intelligence,' which virtually means that they believe in enforcing the law dishonestly." He gave a resume of the Fifty-first and Fifty-second congresses, with Thomas B. Reed as the principal figure, and gave a brilliant eulogy of the ability of the Maine man and his actions in congress.

Governor Greenhalge criticised his opponents for raising the cry that his administration had taken local autonomy from the cities and towns, and he explained how he had various boards of commissioners he had appointed had been of benefit to the whole state.

Lieutenant Governor Wolcott reviewed the work of the Republican party in this state during the past four years, and urged the members of the club to see that the best citizens were put into office.

Congressman Smith of Michigan said the Republican party was born on the quickened conscience of the American people and had struck the shackles from 4,000,000 slaves. The Democratic party, he said, should be branded for disloyalty to the noble men who stood in the breach while this republic needed them most.

"Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, are loved and revered, and I would rather have followed the leadership of the great Blaine to disaster than the greatest leader the Democratic party ever had to victory."
